CLAUDE O. FUNK has removed to 229 East Douglas avenue, Wichita, Kansas.

THE firm name of the Winthrop Manufacturing Company, 72 Duane street, New York, has been changed to Carter, Rice & Co., incorporated.

THE Washington (Pa.) Reporter has recently put on a new dress of body and advertising type, and improved its appearance in other respects.

FOLSOM & SUNERGREN, photoengravers, Boston, have removed to new quarters at 92 Pearl street, where they have two large floors, with modern equipment.

J. C. CLAGHORN, formerly with the Electro-Tint Engraving Company, Philadelphia, is now with Brown & Bigelow, St. Paul, having charge of the art department.

GEORGE MCKEOWN, head of the McKeown Printing Works, Anderson, Indiana, died in that city on February 26. The business will be continued under the same name as heretofore.

THE J. L. Morrison Company, New York, makers of wire stitchers, will have an exhibit of their machinery at the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo this year. All the machines will be in operation.

J. CLYDE OSWALD has purchased Newspaperdom and has also bought a controlling interest in the Business Publishing Company, publishers of Business. Both papers will be enlarged and improved in the near future. Charles S. Patteson continues his connection with Newspaperdom as associate editor.

GEORGE H. BENEDICT & Co., the well-known photoengravers, so long located at the corner of Clark and Monroe streets, Chicago, will move to 308 to 318 Dearborn street on May 1. The new quarters — all on one floor — are being fitted up according to modern ideas, and when completed the plant will be an ideal one. Electrotyping will continue to be an important branch of the business.

ABOUT two-thirds of the Detroit plant of the Olds Motor Works was destroyed by fire on March 9. Another building was immediately secured and business continued, orders for engines being filled from the Lansing plant. The buildings destroyed are being rebuilt, and the company will soon be in shape to look after its engine and automobile orders as promptly as in the past.

W. E. WILLIS, formerly editor of the Ventura (Cal.) Free Press, and A. H. Corman, of The Hour, Redlands, are now publishing The Review, Redlands, California. They are practical newspaper men and are getting out a very creditable sheet. The field is a rich one for both home and foreign advertisers, as Redlands is famous for her oranges, climate and beautiful location, and is crowded with Eastern tourists.

THE sudden death of Mr. Michael Treacy, on December 18, 1900, dissolved the firm of Brown, Treacy & Co., St. Paul, Minnesota, which was established in 1881. The corporation of Brown, Treacy & Sperry Company has succeeded to the business. The following are the officers: H. D. Brown, president and general manager; D. S. Sperry, vice-president; H. A. Blodgett, secretary and treasurer. Mrs. Treacy, wife of the former partner, still has a financial interest in the company.

THE A. B. Morse Company, of St. Joseph, Michigan, has closed a contract for printing the Threshermen's Review, now published in Port Huron, Michigan. The contract begins with the May issue, and previous to that time the entire editorial, advertising and subscription departments will be removed from Port Huron to St. Joseph. The Review is the oldest and largest threshermen's paper published in the United States. This publication, together with the National Fruit Grower, which is also printed on the A. B. Morse Company's presses, will give St. Joseph two of the leading trade papers of Michigan.

CHARLES J. WHIPPLE, for thirteen years identified with the management of the Franklin Engraving & Electrotyping Company, Chicago, and with the Osgood Company, Chicago, has withdrawn from the latter concern and is installing a new engraving plant at 358 Dearborn street, Chicago, to be known as the Whipple Engraving Company. It is expected that the plant will be ready for operation by the middle of April. All kinds of engraving will be done, and it is the intention of the firm to produce only high-grade work. A full corps of artists and workmen has been secured, and Chicago's new engraving firm bids fair to start well so far as equipment and people are concerned.

company, and the business of the many branches is carried on with marvelous system. A man of wonderful executive ability, he has placed the business of this corporation upon a substantial basis. The election is an acknowledgment on the part of the directors of Mr. Nelson's abilities and of the faith they have in him. He was one of the founders of the American Press Association, and was with that company a number of years. He was afterward connected with the Thorne Typesetting Machine Company, being president of that concern. In 1894 he was elected director of the American Type Founders Company, and shortly afterward was made general manager.
